

The Never-Quit Streak System

The method that gets you to day 100

Most people quit a savings challenge around week three - right when the amounts start to climb and the novelty fades. This short system is built to get you past that wall and all the way to day 100.

The 3 rules that keep the streak alive

1. Never miss twice. Missing one day is life. Missing two is the start of quitting. If you skip, fill the next box no matter how small.
2. Make it visible. Tape the sheet where you'll see it daily - fridge, mirror, desk. Out of sight is the #1 reason people fall off.
3. Shrink the day, don't skip it. Short on cash? Fill the smallest open box. A $1 box filled keeps the streak; a blank day breaks it.

The week-3 rescue

When the boxes get bigger, switch order: fill the big ones on paydays and the small ones on lean days. You decide which box each day - the goal is an unbroken chain, not a perfect order.

Your milestones

- Day 10. First $55-$100 saved. Reward yourself with something free.
- Day 30. You're past the quit zone. The habit is forming.
- Day 60. More than halfway. Momentum is doing the work now.
- Day 100. Goal reached. You didn't just save money - you proved you finish.

If you fall behind

Don't start over and don't beat yourself up. Pick the next open box and keep going. Finishing late still beats quitting - the only way to lose is to stop filling boxes.
